WHY WE'RE TELLING THESE STORIES...

From David Isay, founder of StoryCorps:

"There's something about the human voice, just the human voice, where you can't really hide. So I think the power of stories is enormous and I think that what we see with Story Corps and what you're going to hear on this program is that, no matter where you come from, when you hear a story of someone who may be very, very different than you, just for a moment you're going to walk in the footsteps of that person.

And that act of walking in someone's footsteps can build really powerful bridges."
